

WRIGHTS' AIRSHIP MYSTERY CLEARED

Aeroplane Patents Remove
All of the Danger.

INSPECTIONS WELCOMED NOW

One of the Inventors Asserts that No Further Attempts Will Be Made

Will Easily Meet All Requirements.

Work of assembling Wright brothers' aeroplane was begun by Mechanics Taylor and Furness in the balloon shed at Fort Myer yesterday afternoon.

Orville Wright, who arrived at Fort Myer in the afternoon, superintended the construction work. He said last night that almost a week would be required to complete the aeroplane. It is not likely any trials will be made until the middle of next week.

Taylor and Furness spent most of their time unpacking the cases in which the aeroplane was shipped to Fort Myer and sawing the muslin on the frame work of the planes.

Not So Spectacular.
"We hope to make some successful flights here," said Mr. Wright. "The Baldwin machine is more spectacular than ours, and I believe the public would prefer to see his dirigible in the air. We have a good level stretch of ground here from which to get a good start. After that it is easy for us."

"Concerning the mystery enshrouding our machine, I want to say that the newspapers have created the mystery. Of course we can work better with no crowd around our machine, but on a number of occasions more persons than there are out here this evening have witnessed our tests. We have no particular secret to keep from any one. We have patents on our machine, and any one who wishes may come and see the flights. Of course, we excluded the proper caution to guard our patents while our claims were pending, but now there is no reason for secrecy. I have no objection to photographers taking pictures of our invention."

"We can make more than forty miles an hour in our aeroplane, but I probably won't run it at any higher speed than that at about here. Twenty-six miles an hour is the lowest possible speed at which we can operate the aeroplane and keep it aloft. It would drop to the ground if the speed was reduced to twenty miles an hour."

"The aeroplane has to be seen in order to give an idea of it. A description means little. The machine weighs approximately 800 pounds, without any passengers or fuel. It has a span of 50 square feet. It measures 40 feet in width and 32 feet fore and aft. The motor is our own invention. It has 25 or 30 horsepower and is capable of 1,500 revolutions a minute. It operates on kerosene in the base of the machine. These propellers revolve in opposite directions at a rate of about 500 times a minute when we are traveling at high speed."

Of Spruce and Ash.
"The framework is made of West Virginia spruce and ash. This is strong, light material, and we find it more suitable than any other wood. The planes form a helioid, or, in other words, they are twisted down on the ends. The woodwork is covered with muslin almost as heavy as balloon cloth. This muslin is laced on the framework. In front we have a box like plane, by which we control the rise and descent of the aeroplane. In the rear we have a two-sided rudder. There are three levers for the operator to look after. Two of these control the lateral movement of the aeroplane, while the other controls the rise and fall of the machine. The engine is within two feet of the operator, but it is never necessary to touch it except to start or stop the motor."

"One of the essential differences between an aeroplane and a dirigible is that one man operates our invention. The other man in the aeroplane is merely a passenger, with nothing to do but hold on and enjoy the flights."

"We will be in complete compliance with all the specifications of the War Department, and expect to make some of our best flights. We will carry two men, show a speed of forty miles, and remain up as long as the government requires. The length of time of the flights is regulated entirely by the fuel supply."

Men Will Work Fast.

The mechanics and Mr. Wright will resume work on the aeroplane this morning. They will work fast to assemble the machine at the earliest moment, in order to make as many preliminary flights as possible. Mr. Wright delivered the aeroplane a week sooner than the Signal Corps officers expected, as it was not due until next Friday.

Mr. Wright has five weeks in which to meet the government specifications, subject his aeroplane to the required tests and deliver the invention to the War Department.

KNOWS MORE OF SNAKES.

Rodney Rose's Experience May Profit Him at the Zoo.

Rodney Rose, keeper at the Zoo, who was bitten by a diamond rattlesnake on Monday last, may be said to have recovered. He is still at the hospital, under care, but feels fit to leave, and will be allowed to go in a few days.

Rose is going back to his work of caring for the snakes at the Zoo. They will not catch him off guard again, he says. While saying this, he does not admit that he was off guard when he was bitten. There was just one thing he did not know about rattlers, and that was the reason he got in that attack. What he did not know before and does not know now is how far a rattler can spring and strike. It is much farther than he thought.

PANAMA CONDITIONS IDEAL

Representative Denby, of Michigan,
Is Enthusiastic.

He Says Dirt Is Flying Fast and
There Are No Drums on Canal Zone.

Representative Edwin Denby, of Detroit, Mich., who has just finished his judicial labors in Panama, where he and Judge E. C. Bumpus acted as referees in fifteen cases upon which the Panama Commission could not agree, was at the New Willard Hotel last evening.

Representative Denby was enthusiastic over the progress made in digging the "big ditch," and equally interested in the political situation in the United States. Mr. Denby represents the First District of Michigan in Congress. He is one of the most brilliant lawyers in his State, and also well acquainted with foreign affairs, as he is a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House. Because of his ability and wide knowledge of international law, he was appointed by President Roosevelt to go to Panama and break the judicial deadlock. On June 6 he and Judge Bumpus left the United States for Panama.

"I know but little, if anything, about what has gone on in politics in the United States since last June," said Mr. Denby, "but I would like to know a great deal." Mr. Denby was interested in the Ohio middle and the New York political situation. He asked many questions concerning the doings in those States.

"I know what is going on in Panama, because I was an interested observer there," said Representative Denby. "The dirt is flying. They are taking out 2,000,000 yards of dirt every month. Those are actual figures, not speculation or average. The engineers cannot say when the canal will be finished, but it is estimated that it will be finished in 1915. The Gatun dam, the biggest problem that confronts the engineers, will be started within a short time. This dam will be one and a half miles long and a mile wide. It is to be built eighty-five feet above sea level, and the lake thereby formed will serve as a canal for vessels for twenty-two miles."

"Conditions on the Canal Zone are excellent. The health and spirit of the men are good. There are no drums down there. Every one is working hard and is satisfied."

"Under the Hay-Bunau Varilla treaty, the United States was given authority to excavate on any land that might be found necessary to use in digging the canal. Two judges from Panama and two from the United States were appointed to pass upon the suits of persons having claims for the use of their lands in digging the canal. There were fifteen cases, involving from $500 to $10,000 acres of land."

"For some reason the judges of the two countries did not reach an agreement as to the amount to be allowed the claimants. For that reason Judge Bumpus and I were appointed by the President to go to Panama. The total amount of the awards to the claimants after we reached a decision in the matter was $25,000. All parties were satisfied. Our work being finished, we left the Canal Zone yesterday evening, by which time I shall have made my report to the State Department and conferred with the members of the Panama Commission. You can't put it too strong, however, that I am enthusiastic over the Panama Canal and that I believe it is one of the greatest things this government has ever undertaken."

GETS SERVICES OF ADAMS.

Representative Harry Maynard, of the Second Congressional district of Virginia, who is seeking re-election, and who has two able opponents in the field against him, has procured the services of Emmett L. Adams, business agent of Columbia Lodge, International Machinists' Union, to make an address to laboring men of Portsmouth, Va., to-morrow.

Mr. Adams, who was closely in touch with all attempts at getting bills through Congress aiding labor at the last session, will tell of Mr. Maynard's work toward getting appropriations for the Portsmouth Navy Yard and for the deepening of the channel in the Elizabeth River, Norfolk's outlet to Hampton Roads.

WASHINGTONIANS IN A FIRE.

Burning of Owlout Lodge Caused
Some Anxiety Here.

Owlout Lodge, a popular summer resort on Upper Chateaugay Lake, New York, was destroyed by fire yesterday. A telegram was received late last night, saying that the lodge and its contents had been destroyed, and that the residents of Washington who were summering at the resort were safe. Twelve-year-old John Snyder, a kitchen boy, was burned to death.

The burning of the hotel, which, it is said, is not insured, will be a severe loss to its owners, Miss Edith C. Westcott, principal of Western High School, and Miss Alva E. Bentley, head of the music department of the Washington public schools.

About four years ago Owlout Lodge was damaged by fire, and the Misses Coleman, of the Tea Cup Inn, who then owned the lodge, sold it to Miss Bentley and Miss Westcott for about $1,000, according to friends. The building was remodelled at a cost of about $5,000, and was well known for the beauty of its construction.

It is understood that most of the guests lost their effects in the fire, and it is expected they will return to Washington this afternoon or to-morrow morning.

Among the residents of Washington who are known to have been guests at the lodge are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Byram, close friends of Mrs. Bentley and Miss Westcott; Mrs. A. S. Polhemus, of the Ashley apartments; Miss Sanders, daughter of Mrs. Samuel Sanders, of 1309 Kenyon street northwest; Mrs. B. Hellman and daughters, Misses Hazel and Dorothy Hellman, of the Mendoza apartments; Miss Alma Goodman, of 1325 S street, and John W. Demaine.

Up to Mr. Garfield.

Editor The Washington Herald:

Sitting in your Hot Springs, Va., special of August 19 Secretary Garfield's prediction, while in conference with Candidate Tamm, that Mr. Bryan would not carry his own State of Nebraska, I would like to ask, Can Mr. Garfield's words be taken as a criterion, especially as he dictated Mr. Theodore E. Burton as the Republican candidate for mayor of Cleveland last fall, with the O. K. of Roosevelt and Taft, and predicted Burton's election over Tom L. Johnson? We all remember the outcome of that contest, which proved Mr. Garfield as being an exceedingly poor prophet. It may be that he will fail just as lamentably in Mr. Bryan's case as in the former contest, a consummation devoutly to be hoped.

The result in Nebraska will be watched with interest by all loyal Bryan Democrats, and the laugh might possibly be on Secretary Garfield.

Getting ready to move? Don't jump out of the frying pan into the fire, but consult The Washington Herald's classified columns and get a good place to live.

HARTLEY IS CRITICALLY ILL

Well-known Police Officer Taken to Georgetown Hospital.

Returns to Duty Against Doctor's
Orders and Suffers a Relapse.
Sense of Duty Too Strong.

Lieut. James Hartley, of the First Police precinct, who for three weeks has been seriously ill at his apartments in the La Grande flats, became so much worse yesterday afternoon that it was found necessary to have him removed to the Georgetown University Hospital. His condition last night was critical.

The officer's illness is due to his untiring sense of duty. He left his home against the advice of physicians to carry out his police work.

For months Lieut. Hartley has suffered from severe organic troubles. He was on the road to recovery when he went back to work. He suffered a relapse and has since grown steadily worse. His attending physician advised an operation as the only means of saving his life, and he was accordingly taken to the Georgetown institution. The operation probably will be performed to-day.

Lieut. Hartley has been on the force for about seventeen years. Before that time he was in the regular army. He served as a private for eight years in the Second and Third regiments and was then transferred to the First precinct. Shortly after his transfer he was made a sergeant. He served as a sergeant until July, 1906, when he was promoted to a lieutenant.

The sick man's record as a policeman is enviable, and the discipline he learned in the army has served him in good stead as a member of the Metropolitan police force. He has many friends among well-known business men and merchants in the downtown section, where his precinct is located, and is favorably known to many newspaper men.

SOCIAL EQUALITY BARRED.

Police Break Up Meeting Place of Whites and Blacks.

Bluefield, W. Va., Aug. 21.—That the political Republican boss of McDowell County, Va., A. L. Calhoun, colored, with other members of the Republican party, were last Sunday night quietly arrested for operating a social equality club has just been made public. The club rooms were owned by a negro, and it is charged that white men and negro women and white women and negro men were in the habit of congregating to spend the evening in social gatherings, feasting, drinking, and courtship. Those arrested have waived a preliminary hearing. The Union Political and Social Club quarters were at Key-stone, A. L. Calhoun, colored, owns the building rented to the organization; hence Calhoun, as well as the managers of the club, Arthur Chestnut, Charles Walker, J. W. Saunders, Cora Anthony, Bob Harris, and Logan Tucker, were taken in charge by Sheriff Feltz during the raid, all being held for the grand jury.

Payne was arrested following a dispute over a caps game, which ended the prisoner's cents. His antagonist escaped the police and the court was unable to investigate Payne's remark about "You ought to see the other fellow."

RICHARDSON IS ARRESTED.

Alleged Jewel Thief Caught in Norfolk, Va.

Capt. Boardman, chief of detectives, received a telegram yesterday evening from Central Office Detective Pratt, dated Norfolk, Va., saying that Leon S. Richardson, nineteen years old, wanted here for the larceny of jewelry, is under arrest. The stolen property has been recovered.

On August 13, Mrs. Phyllis Peter, living in the La Grande flats, Fourth street between F and G streets, reported to the police that on August 11 a jewel case containing earrings, several gold chains, two watches, and a diamond breast pin had been stolen from her room. The property is valued at about $200.

Detectives Howlett and Pratt were assigned to the case, and after several days' work located the alleged thief in Norfolk. On Thursday Pratt went to Norfolk and arrested the man and recovered the missing property. It is probable Richardson will be arraigned in the Police Court to-day.

CIRCULATE UNSIGNED PAPER.

Certificate on Old Washington Bank
Causes Two Arrests.

For passing a number of unsigned ten-dollar notes of the old Bank of the Republic, which passed out of existence in Washington several years ago, two men, who gave their names as John Lynch, of Boston, and John McCus, of Worcester, Mass., were held in the Jefferson Market Police Court, in New York City, yesterday. They were charged with swindling.

The arrests were made as a result of sixteen complaints made since last Saturday night to the New York police, by rooming house owners, who say that they were swindled by the men, who engaged rooms and paid for them with the alleged valueless ten-dollar notes. The prisoners will be brought before the court this morning.

More than fifty years have elapsed since the date which appears upon the notes, September 1, 1832. They are apparently good except for the fact that the signatures of the president and treasurer are lacking on each. In every instance where the bills were passed, the men got from $3 to $7 change and then decamped.

Negroes Meet To-night.

F. S. Pinchard, of New York, Harry Cummings, of Baltimore; J. C. Napier, of Nashville, and others.

FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

The woman who has ready money has the advantage of her sister this season of the year in being able to secure genuine bargains. Wise dealers make business by getting rid of stock remnants before the time for displaying new goods arrives. One of the prettiest frocks I have seen in a long while was made of figured silk tissue in black, purchased for 37 cents a yard. In season the same piece of goods was marked at $1.50 a yard.

Another bargain was a piece of batiste, scrub with embroidered white dots scattered over it, material which was beyond the owner's purse in spring, when it sold for 40 cents per yard. Midsummer of last year found eighteen yards of it on a bargain counter marked to 6 cents a yard, and this year it was converted into a delicious little frock with trimmings of golden brown ribbon, and an embroidered white blouse. Golden brown hosiery, shoes, and gloves, and a white leghorn hat, with a simple flapping brim and high crown, trimmed with soft white silk, made the outfit one of the smartest of the season.

Broken lots of stockings and shoes are veritable mines for women with small feet. So are gloves, for odds and ends are usually of unusual sizes. The semi-made robes are a boon to the woman who makes her own clothes or the one who hires a seamstress. One can be finished in a day by experienced fingers. Any woman who has one or more good points should do her best to emphasize her bit of beauty, like the woman who challenges my admiration every day with fresh footwear.

She is a plain woman, with pretty ankles and shapely feet, rather small for these days. At all hours of the day she dresses her feet perfectly, wise woman that she is, and in admiring them one forgets her plain features and ugly, dull-brown hair. Few women, by the way, attempt to follow closely the fashions in shoes. They change as often as does any other item of the wardrobe, but great good sense is shown in wearing shoes and stockings that they give out. It would be extravagant, indeed, to discard all clothing that is a little behind the times.

In domestic articles there is a great saving of money by watching the bargain sales. Odd napkins in half-dozens lots, table cloths without napkins to match, broken lots of towels and soiled lots, centerpieces and doilies—all find their way to the bargain counter. There is a place for such articles in the ordinary home, and there is a need of economizing in every branch as well. The prettiest houses I know are kept up to the mark by judicious buying, although all wives do not confess to their methods. I am not at all sure that it is wise to take the public into one's confidence to any great extent, for confidences supply material for gossip, and there is too much of that under the best of conditions.
